

Louisville man dies in Floyd County crash

Written by George Browning

Tuesday, 06 November 2012 00:00 -

A Louisville man dies as a result of an accident that happened on the I-265 westbound ramp to I-64 eastbound in Floyd County on Oct. 30 at approximately 12:28 p.m.

Witnesses say a blue 2007 Ford Taurus was traveling westbound on I-265 at a high rate of speed.

Upon taking the ramp to I-64 eastbound, the Ford for an unknown reason left the roadway and traveled down a steep embankment where it crashed.

The driver, James M. Stallings, 34, Louisville, was transported to University Hospital by air ambulance where he was pronounced dead.

The driver was not wearing a safety belt at the time of the crash.

This is a pending crash investigation.

Further information to be released.