

Two people were taken to the hospital following a crash that occurred Sunday afternoon.

April Colglazier was flown by helicopter ambulance to the University of Louisville Hospital and Jeremiah McCoskey was taken by Knox County EMS to St. Vincent-Salem Hospital.

Neither of the injuries were considered to be life threatening.

According to Washington County Sheriff's Deputy Charlie Lewis a Ford F-250 driven by Johnna Bowers was traveling west on Highway 60 towards Salem.

According to Lewis, Bowers said she saw cargo in her truck falling and decided to pull into J and R Liquors to catch it.

When she did, she didn't see the Ford Escort, which was being driven at the time by April Colglazier.

The two vehicles hit head-on.

Scott Schocke, with the Washington County Sheriff's Department also assisted on the scene.
