? The Community Foundation of Southern Indiana awarded $198,542 to southern Indiana high school students for the 2008-2009 school year.

The scholarships include those originated by families to honor loved ones as well as those established by foundations or organizations to encourage the pursuit of advanced education. In addition to those funds, CFSI administers the Lilly Endowment Community Scholars program, which awarded six full tuition scholarships this year to six area high school students.

Scholarships were awarded in Clark, Floyd and Harrison counties. High School seniors in any of those three counties were invited to apply.

Students are encouraged to join the Community Foundation of Southern Indiana's Facebook group to keep updated on scholarship deadlines and information. Scholarship applications for rising seniors will be available in the fall of 2008.

Scholarship recipients are selected by a committee from the Community Foundation. Following is a list of scholarship winners by school. Winners of the Paul W. Ogle Scholarships and the Lilly Endowment Community Scholarships are announced in separate press releases.
