

Three weeks ago, Lady Antebellum began a contest offering fans a chance to Own The Prom Night with a private concert at their prom this spring. After carefully reviewing each submission, the trio unanimously chose the community of Henryville, IN for their story, resilience and unity following devastating tornadoes earlier this month. Not only was their own submission moving, but schools across the country spontaneously submitted videos campaigning on behalf of Henryville High School in support of Henryville receiving the special concert, including the winning submission from Silver Creek High School.

Due to a previously scheduled commitment, the trio won't be able to make Henryville High School's scheduled prom. In lieu of a performance at their official celebration, the band has decided to throw a bigger event on May 16th in nearby Louisville, KY for the school's Juniors and Seniors followed by a benefit for the community. Details for all arrangements will be shared over the next few days. Congratulations Henryville!

Watch Lady A's special announcement video and the official winning video below!