One of southern Indiana's major tourist attractions, Beck's Mill, will open its 2014 season Friday, April 4. The mill, located six miles south of Salem, will be open Fridays and Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sundays, 1 to 4 p.m.

The last tour of the day starts at 3:15 p.m.

The historic and renovated mill offers tours, corn milling, hiking trails and a picnic area. New this year is Tommy Green's Distillery.

Green was a friend of the Beck family and made his living as a preacher and creator of "liquid fire" made from the mill's corn remnants. He was such a colorful character that one of his helpers wrote a poem about him.

You'll have to visit the mill to hear the poem!

For more than 200 years there has been an operating mill on the site. Adult admission is $5. Admission is free to children 16 and under with a paid adult admission.
